NEW MASTER TRAINER FOR REACT

Wayne Alleyway - Master Trainer

PS5 would like to officially welcome on board Wayne Alleyway as a new REACT Master Trainer. We have known Wayne for some time in his role as a serving Police Officer with a wealth of experience and specialist knowledge in self-defence and personal safety training. We look forward to a long working relationship with Wayne and trust he will become a familiar face to our clients.

"After a military career in the corp of Royal Military Police I served for twenty years as an operational Police Officer with South Yorkshire Police.

I served on many plain closed attachments as well as being a full time member of the force public order unit. For over Fifteen years I worked as a force Personal Safety Instructor, covering all aspects of police training. I am a fully qualified instructor in Conflict Management, Tactical Communications, Unarmed Defensive Tactics, Control and Restraint, Expandable and Rigid Baton, Rigid Hand Cuff, CS Incapacitant Spray as well as Edged Weapon Awareness and Defence. I am also qualified in Methods of entry and Search techniques. I have for many years studied classical Ju Jutsu and also Taiho Jutsu, the marshal art that was specially developed for police officers by police officers. During my time in the Military and the Police I was an advocate of realistic high impact training, I believe realism enables students to test out techniques under real stress conditions. In my opinion there is no drought that this type of training better prepares officers and security personnel to deal with real conflict situations. I am a strong believer in educating people to the realities of conflict. One of the areas that has always been sadly neglected in police and military training is weapons awareness, and it was a result of my research in the subject that I came across Steve Collins and PS5. I believe South Yorkshire Police were one of the first forces in the country to benefit from the superb training aids PS5 produces, and there is no doubt that the officers I trained are safer as a result.

I have recently left the force, and am looking forward to working with and along side Steve and the PS5 team. Promoting the philosophy of Protecting Citizens Worldwide apples to me and I am very happy they have accepted me on the team. Educating people to help create a better awareness and understanding of danger in order to provide greater safety for every one can't be wrong."
